Pagan Attitude Is Cause of Warfare

Dr. Robin Gould Says in Armistice Day Address in College Auditorium.

Our Pagan attitude toward others and our selfish indifference toward human personality, from a local, national and international point of view, is one of the basic causes for wars and the troubles which beset civilization of today, according to Dr. Robin Gould, who gave the Armistice Day address in the College Auditorium, last Wednesday.

Dr. Gould served as chaplain in the 354th Infantry in the 89th Division, in France. After the Armistice was signed, he served in the army of occupation, spending considerable time in France, Germany and other European countries.

The speaker said that there were always too many false, and selfish philosophies dominating in international contractual agreements for peace, as was the condition attending the signing of the agreements at the close of the World War. While thirteen years have elapsed since the close of the World War, Dr. Gould pointed out that the World is no better off seemingly, than it was then, however out of the clouds of international strife, of disappointments on the part of many nations, of economic chaos, of continued armament programs and selfishness the World War Veteran said that he could see a hope for the world yet.

Concerning economic and industrial conditions in this country the speaker said that the problem is not one of overproduction, but one of underconsumption. He pointed out that 86 per cent of the people in this country are poor people and that millions of homes have no bath tubs, telephones, running water, electricity and other modern conveniences.

Dr. Gould challenged those present to foster the spirit of friendship, brotherhood and love, saying that they should always and always remember that man counts most.

Swimming Classes Will Give Exhibition Monday

Next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock the 9 o'clock and the 11 o'clock swimming classes taught by Roy Ferguson will hold a swimming meet at the College swimming pool.

The teams are known as the Slippery Eels and the Slimy Seals. Maurice "Buster" Strong, who will referee the meet, will also give a diving and swimming exhibition immediately after the meet. Mr. Strong is well known over the country especially in intercollegiate and university swimming circles as an outstanding swimmer and diver.

After the exhibition and the meet the pool will be open to College and faculty members who care to swim. Everyone is invited to see the swimming meet and the exhibition.

Conservatory Students Will Give Radio Program

The following program will be given over Radio Station KGIZ at Grant City, Mo., Sunday afternoon, Nov. 22 from four to five o'clock. Charles E. Gardner, chairman of the College Conservatory of Music has charge of the arrangements for the program.

Salute to the flag (Dykema); The Home Road (Carpenter); Mens Glee Club.

Francesca (Strong); Hyacinthe (Vander Cook); Carl Blackwelder. The Caravan of the Magi (Buck); The Warder's Night Song (Rubinstein); Mens Glee Club.

Invictus (Huhn); Bandolero; Three for Jack, Edson Miller.

The Heavens Resound (Beethoven); Mens Glee Club.

The Top (Leschetizky); Romance (Sibelius); Etude in G Flat Major (Chopin); Donald Johnson.

Cremation of Sam McGee (Serrice); Carry On (Serrice); Danny (Dy); Barney Thompson.

Poor Mourners (Camp Meeting Song); Water Boy (Negro Work Song); Mens Glee Club.

Forensic Union Party.

The Forensic Union gave its fall party last Friday in the Social Hall. The members enjoyed an evening of dancing and playing cards. Refreshments of sandwiches and candy bars were served.

Article is Published.
An article entitled "Yet Once More," written by Miss Blanche Dow of the College faculty, was printed in full in the special Armistice Day edition of the Maryville Daily Forum. In the article Miss Dow tells in an enlightening and dramatic manner of her tour of the French battlefields of the World War. The article also appeared in the October issue of the magazine, The High School Teacher. Miss Dow is in Europe at the present time.

Advisory Committee Submits Report to President Hoover

President Hoover's National Advisory Committee appointed two years ago to make a study of the relation of education to the federal government has recently turned in its report to Mr. Hoover. President Lamkin was one of the educators selected in the group and again was one of the nine educators selected to serve on the steering committee for the group.

Among other things the committee urges the creation of a department of education with a secretary in the President's cabinet.

The department of education would be formed from the nucleus of the existing office of education, which is under the interior department.

The committee's 2-year study was made possible by a grant of $100,000 by the Julius Rosenwald Fund.

Mr. Lamkin has conferred a number of times in Washington with the other members of the steering committee which played a large part in framing the report.

College Brevities

Concerning the meeting in St. Louis, Mr. Colbert said, poetically, "Glenn Frank is a crank, I think, because he wouldn't talk before the mike."

It seems that Mr. Frank was afraid of losing his personality if he talked into the microphone.

Mr. Dieterich said that he didn't see any ducks at the meeting in St. Louis, but that he saw some geese coming home. When asked if the geese had been to the meeting, Mr. Dieterich said "No," but they were milling around just like some of the folks at the meeting.

The men's Glee Club of the College, under the direction of Charles R. Gardner, chairman of the College Conservatory of Music, sang two numbers at the opening of the Armistice Day assembly at the College, last Wednesday. This is the first appearance of the club.

Herman Schuster, instructor of voice of the College Conservatory of Music, sang "There is No Death," at the close of the Armistice Day address last Wednesday, by Dr. Robin Gould, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, at Mexico, Mo. Mr. Schuster was accompanied with the piano by Miss Marjorie Barton, piano instructor of the College Conservatory of Music.

The Maryville Branch of the American Association of University Women has presented to the College Library a copy of the "History of the American Association of University Women, 1881-1931," by Marion Talbot and Lois K. M. Rosenberry. The book has been issued in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Association.

Members of the College S. S. Class of the M. E. Church, South, will visit the College S. S. Class of the Presbyterian Church on South Main St., next Sunday morning, November 22 at 9:30 a. m. All College students are especially invited to attend this service. Mrs. M. E. Ford, a former member of the College faculty, has prepared a special program for college students.

The Sigma Tau held an informal dance at their house on South Main St., after the pep rally last Tuesday evening.

Dr. O. Myking Mehus of the College addressed the Men's Monday Forum, yesterday on the subject, "The World Disarmament Conference." Mr. Mehus, who spoke at Rosendale last Sunday, will speak at the M. E. Church, South, at the regular church hour next Sunday morning.

Ruth Bryan Owen said that some day there will be a law whereby money will be provided for a mother who has lost her husband to rear her children under her care.

Ruth Bryan Owen said that our nation will live, if the responsibility of our government falls on the shoulders of all of the citizens.

Ruth Bryan Owen seemed to think that a woman could do justice in her own home and still help to bring about the fine and proper home conditions for others.

If Ruth Bryan Owen is correct in her suggestion, the motion pictures will be used more and more in the teaching process.

Miss Inez Ebersole, whose home is in Maryville, is leaving College to teach in the Cowdell school system. Miss Ebersole, who has been active in college here, will teach the seventh and eighth grades and will have charge of the high school glee clubs.

Educational Tour Starts Next Month

Many Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma Students Will Make Florida Trip.

The mid-winter educational and recreational tour, sponsored and planned for Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma teachers and students will start December 26. This tour is personally scheduled and conducted by Carl Richard Brick of Kansas City, Mo.

The following schools and colleges will have representatives on this tour: Northwest Missouri, Maryville; Central Missouri, Warrensburg; Kansas State, Emporia; Pittsburg; Teachers College of Kansas City; William Jewell College, Liberty; Kansas State Agricultural College, Manhattan; Ottawa, Kan., University; Ottawa; St. Joseph Junior College; Washburn College, Topeka; Doane University, Crete, Neb.; University of Oklahoma, Norman; Oklahoma City University; University of Wichita; Southwestern College, Winfield, Kan.; Tarkio College, Tarkio; Park College, Parkville; and the University of Kansas, at Lawrence.

The following questionnaire will give information regarding the tour:

Whom is it for? College and University students. College and University faculty members. Public School teachers.

Can our friends go at the same prices? Yes, if they are acceptable to the key man or woman in one of the colleges or universities who have endorsed the tour.

Will the party be properly chaperoned? Most assuredly; by competent men or women approved by the Presidents of the institutions listed.

How is it that the price of the Tour is so low? By reason of its being arranged on the group or co-operative plan.

What will I wear in Florida? Your summer apparel.

Who looks after our luggage while we are on sightseeing trips? The Pullman Company who guards the cars every minute they are parked.

How long will I be gone? From Saturday, December 26, 1931, to Sunday, January 3, 1932—8 days.

What is included in the all-expense prices quoted? Round-trip rail and sleeping car fares. - - - Occupancy of sleeping cars at stopover points. - - - All regular meals. - - - Tips. - - - Sightseeing trips hereafter described. - - - In fact every necessary item of expense except incidental and personal items such as souvenirs and postage stamps.

What outstanding cities do we visit? Jacksonville, St. Augustine, St. Petersburg, Tampa, Avon Park, Lake Wales, Bok Tower, Sebring, West Palm Beach, Palm Beach, Miami and Miami Beach in Florida, and Chattanooga, Tenn.

Music Department of Teachers' Group Elects

Mrs. Carrie Margaret Caldwell, instructor of music in the Southwest high school at Kansas City, and formerly of the Conservatory of Music faculty of the College, was elected vice-chairman of the Music Department of the State Teachers Association at the recent meeting in St. Louis.

C. R. Gardner of the College, who attended the meeting said that Carl Webb, who is in charge of the music department at Kirksville, S. T. C., and who studied music here at the College for several summers, directed the all-state high school orchestra, which played for the state meeting in St. Louis.

Miss Hannah Whitacre, supervisor of music at Moberly, was elected chairman of the state department of music while Miss Beulah Bennett, director of music at St. Joseph Central high school was elected secretary.

Coronation Ball
The second annual Coronation Ball will be held Friday night of this week. The dance is sponsored by the Tower Staff and is planned to be the Big Dance of the school year. A very entertaining program has been planned—don't miss this! It starts at eighty thirty and is informal. - - - The place is the west library.

Sociology Classes Take Trip.
Last Thursday November 12, Mr. Mehus took his Sociology classes to St. Joseph, Mo., on a tour of inspection of various social institutions and industrial institutions of that city.

Address Y. M. C. A.
At the Y. M. C. A. meeting last Thursday at the College Glen S. Dunham discussed the topic "What the Schools are Helping America to Achieve." Everett F. Evans spoke on "The Present Outlook for World Peace," and Clyde Sparks, discussed "The World Disarmament Conference."

The President Says

A few years ago I went fishing with a friend and his father. His father was at that time a patriarch not only among fishermen but among men. The father went up one side of the creek and my friend and I the other.

An hour passed. All at once we heard the old judge start up the song of joy that a "hill-billy" sings when a moment of triumph comes. Looking across the creek we saw him dancing and singing while he held up for us to see a five-pound bass.

"How long did you play with him, dad?" my friend called across the stream. "About fifteen minutes," came the reply. "Why didn't you holler first so we could see you pull him in?" And the old fisherman answered in words of wisdom: "No, no, my boy. Never holler till you get your fish on the bank."

The conference season in football ends with the game at Warrensburg on Thanksgiving Day, not with the game with Kirksville last Wednesday.

State Teachers Meeting a Success

Attendance Is Small But Work Was of High Order, President Lamkin Says.

The following teachers at the College attended the State Teachers Meeting in St. Louis last week: H. T. Phillips, A. H. Cooper, O. Miller, H. R. Dieterich, Dr. Palmer, Miss Elizabeth White, Miss Grace M. Shepherd, Miss Mattie M. Dykes, C. R. Gardner, G. H. Colbert, Dr. Hake, Leslie G. Somerville, and President Lamkin.

Concerning the meeting President Lamkin said that while the crowd was possibly the smallest, he thought the program was the best the Association has ever had. He said that it couldn't have been otherwise with the excellent speakers who were there.

Mr. Cooper said that all of the proposed amendments to the constitution of the Association failed to pass. He said that the famous Private Peat gave one of the best short talks which were given at the meeting.

According to Mr. Cooper, Private Peat said that the best way to get and maintain world peace would be to have compulsory military training for all men from 18 to 22 years of age under actual war conditions as nearly as possible. That is build trenches and flood them with water and have them filthy with mud, cooties, rats and mice, and then turn the hose on those in the trenches. Private Peat said there would be some deaths from pneumonia, but that it would probably make for peace.

Miss Elizabeth White has missed only one State Meeting in the last 17 years. She said some of the outstanding addresses were delivered by S. Parkes A. Cadman, Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin, Dr. Albert E. Wigam, Private Peat, Ruth Bryan Owen, Supt. Broome of Philadelphia, and Florence Hale.

Orville C. Miller who was secretary of the State Teachers College speech league, acted as guest chairman at the meeting of the English and Speech department. He was made chairman of the constitutional committee, a delegate to Detroit, to attend the annual meeting of the Federation of Central States Speech Association.

Mr. Phillips said many of the speakers dealt with economic depression.

College High Dramatic Club Officers Named

Officers for the Dramatics Club of the College high school were recently appointed by their instructor, Miss Cecile Gist, as follows: Student director, Mildred Ballah; program chairman, Helen Dougan; secretary-treasurer, Lucille Farrar; boy representative, Edwin Marshall; girl representative, Elsie Snyder.

The H. S. Dramatic Club party was held yesterday morning in Social Hall, from eleven to twelve o'clock. Games and dancing were a part of the entertainment.

The club announces that the play "Eve in Evelyn" and "Scandal Skit," will be given Friday morning, November 20, at the C. H. S. assembly, at eleven o'clock.

Liberal Discussion Club Meets
The Liberal Discussion Club was addressed Thursday night on the education program by Ewart Evans, Russell Noblet, Wallace Culver, and Wilbur Heekin. The club will meet Thursday night at seven thirty in room 225.

Schools of today produce girls instead of women, complains a writer in the Kansas City Star. The writer says that feminine students are given too much in the way of masculine subjects and not enough fundamentals which will be of use to them in their homes.

Sees a Challenge to Social Science

Dr. Foster Says It Has Not Kept Up With Progress in Other Scientific Fields.

Addressing the Alpha Phi Sigma fraternity at the College last Thursday evening, Dr. H. A. Foster, chairman of the Social Science Department of the College, said that social science has not kept up with the progress in science and invention, so that there is a real problem facing civilization at the present time, which is challenging the best efforts of social science workers.

Dr. Foster said that no definite rules had been worked out in the field of social science such as we have in the physical sciences, that the problems confronting the world today are worthy of the best efforts of a student and provide an excellent opportunity, for a student to study deeply, and to do research in this field.

The tendency of the schools today is to give the student more freedom in his study but to hold him to examinations and to make him show that he has results for his study and research. Dr. Foster explained.

Concerning the freedom and new methods in use in the University of Chicago the speaker said that while there is freedom there for the student, great numbers of students who fail to apply themselves to their study, will probably be eliminated when examinations are given.

Dr. Foster suggested that the students learn to do some research work for experience and training, and he suggested that they not make the mistake of searching for snap courses and easy teachers. He said that while an easy teacher may soothe a student along in class in a very pleasant manner, that at the same time he might be lulling the student to a satisfaction with lower levels of achievement. This habit can easily make the life efforts and achievements of the student only half what they might have been. Thus the easy teacher could be called a robber or an enemy of the student rather than a friend.

It was explained that one of the greatest satisfactions found in life comes when we achieve something, and with this in mind Dr. Foster urged the students to build up a liking for, or a proper attitude toward examinations.

Over the Library Desk

Book Week, November 15-21
Children's Book Week is the result of an idea promoted in 1919 by Franklin Matthews, Chief Scout Librarian, who first thought of a concerted movement for more and better reading for children. The idea was soon adopted by the American Booksellers' Association and later by the American Library Association. Observance of one week in November as Children's Book Week has spread through book stores, libraries and schools.

"Round the world in books," or international friendship through children's reading, is the theme for Book Week this year. The idea is based on the conviction that the child who gains a sympathetic attitude toward the people of other lands, will carry that attitude of world-mindedness into his relations with them in his later life. With international problems confronting us daily, the Book Week theme of world friendship through reading has a special timeliness and significance.

May Lamberton Becker, literary editor of St. Nicholas, reviewer for Scholastic, and Readers' Guide of the Saturday Review of Literature, will conduct a "Round the World Book Cruise" and will introduce three outstanding authors of books for young people on the School of the Air Program, over WABC and 65 stations of the Columbia network, Wednesday, November 18, 1:30-2:00 Central Standard Time. Schools, Clubs, and parent-teacher groups will find this program of interest.

Forensic Union.
The Forensic Union will meet Wednesday at 11 o'clock in the Social Hall. The program that was planned for last week will be given this week due to the fact that Forensic Union did not meet last week as Assembly was held at 11 o'clock.

Christmas Cantata To Be Given
The college chorus and glee clubs have been working on the Christmas cantata "The Coming of the King," that will be given under the direction of Charles E. Gardner, on the morning of December 18th.

Jim Seeley Has Good Team
Jim Seeley, star Bearcat tackle and shot put, who was graduated from the College last year is having a successful football season, coaching football in his home town at Princeton. Jim's boys have lost only one game so far this season. The Princeton team attended the Bearcat vs. Bulldogs football game here November 11.

Calendar

Nov. 20—Coronation Ball—8:30 p. m. — West Library — Tower Queens will be announced.
Nov. 20—Bearcats play St. Benedict's at Atchison, Kansas.
Nov. 21—Kry's famous band to play concert in College Auditorium—2:30 p. m. and 8:00 a. m.
Nov. 26—Thursday—Thanksgiving Day—Bearcats play Mules at Warrensburg.
Nov. 25—10 a. m.—"Meet The Bride," by Della Crowder Miller—A one-act comedy of the life of a college president.
Dec. 10—8 p. m. — "Outward Bound," by Sutton Vane—A mystery drama of "the life between"—a phenomenal success of the New York and London stages.

STROLLER

Those Kirksville boys certainly must have had plenty of mud in their eyes, since the Stroller notices that the Northeast Missourian has the following comment on Freshman Parker, who carried the ball over in the recent game, for the touchdown: "Parker, 200-pound Freshman was saved for the critical minute." Parker actually weighs 160 pounds.

The Library Force has moved—if you don't believe it just look at the vacancy on the balcony ledge. The Stroller understands that Clyde Sparks is advertising for locker space.

Dr. Mehus told his class that eating too much candy would be unhealthy as the group visited the Chase Candy Co., but the Stroller wonders what his reason could have been for loitering behind the group on the tour of inspection. The Stroller may be of a suspicious nature but he couldn't help but wonder what Dr. Mehus was munching so contentedly during the visit. He is willing to wager that it wasn't a toothpick. When offered a candy bar after the trip, Dr. Mehus took it, saying as he did so, "I can take this with a clear conscience, which is more than some of the students can do." Ask Heekin, Culver, or Sandison, who he meant.

The Stroller was amused when he saw the vice-president of the student council leave the administration building Saturday morning in a downpour of rain to wash a chalk sign off the sidewalk in front of the main building.

That Kirksville game was some wet party, wasn't it?

And then there are those students who would rather go to class than go to a football game.

We wonder why Joe O'Connor and Charles Stuart had such a hard time getting out of the police station in St. Joe. A certain young man has just had a fight with his best girl, and he says he is footloose and prospective again. Watch out for the heartbreaker, girls.

The Stroller has been thinking seriously of declaring a week of holidays since we've won the Championship! Boom! Boom!—And for the last few days the Stroller's ears have been burning just like someone had been giving him the very dickens—but he has finally reasoned it out—It was that big firecracker which they had on wheels down at the football game last week that did it.

GUESS WHO?

We are sorry that we can not tell you who last week's character was, but his initials are Lawrence Brown.

This week's edition of "guess who," is a Senior girl, member of a sorority. She is slender, and is a burnette. Apart from getting her education she is interested in people, especially blondes. One can truthfully say of her that she is decidedly different because of her ready wit.

Bearcats Defeat Kirksville 7 to 0

Victory Gives M. S. T. C. Eleven M. I. A. Title and Possession of "The Cane."

And so we kept the cane in 1931—Of course we had planned to do that—But—"What A Game!"—Well, President Fair certainly wasn't wrong when he said in his letter to President Lamkin, "Whoever sees the Bearcats vs. Bulldog game will exclaim, 'What a Game,' and our only regret is that he couldn't have been here to have heard the hundreds of similar expressions when the last muddy plunge on the field had been recorded.

What a tussel! Those boys had mud as well as blood in their eyes and that isn't all—there was mud all over them—A dirty game? One couldn't call it anything else but a dirty game, when the players were so rolled in muddy water that even their numbers couldn't be distinguished, and yet, as many who saw the struggle have expressed it was one of the cleanest games ever played in Maryville. According to many present, no finer, higher type of sportsmanship could have been displayed than "was seen on the College gridiron in Maryville November 11 last week.

The ring in the ears caused by the firing of the guns in salute for Armistice Day, was simply nothing compared to the ringing and clanging that happened in the ears of those present when the Bearcats slowly but surely and steadily approached the goal line at the North end of the field and when in the last minutes of play and on the fourth down the ball was thrust across the goal line the noise in the Bearcats stands was almost enough to put ears entirely out of commission. Hats, blankets, umbrellas, programs went so high in the air some of them never will be returned to their owners. The Bearcat Yell Leaders say they never got such a thrill as they did when the Bearcat rosters really turned loose, and trained their horns on the scene of action.

The Bearcats' touchdown defeated the Kirksville Bulldogs for the third time in twenty-four or so years by a score of 7 to 0 and won the M. I. A. championship. In the closing minutes of play, a husky little freshman by the name of Wilbert Parker, carried the ball over for six points and then repeated for the seventh point. We wish to praise every player, and especially mention Herman Fischer for his excellent punting. There may be another unusual punter somewhere in the world but we don't believe there is one who could do what "H" did for his Alma Mater on the gridiron last Wednesday.

We wish to praise Quarterback Hatcher of the Bulldogs for gaining so much ground that in the first half it was acknowledged that the Bulldogs clearly outplayed the Bearcats.

We might mention that Coaches Davis and Iba had confidence in their second string men and it can certainly be said that the way in which the second responded speaks well for the spirit which has prevailed in the Lair of the Bearcats all fall.

The Bearcats who were playing their last game of football on the Bearcat field were: Herman Fischer (co-captain), Frank Moore, a center, Walter Dowell, guard, Robert Dowell, tackle and brother to Walter Dowell, Wilbur Stalcup, end and president of the Student Council, Robert "Pop" Hodge, end, and Victor Mahood, end, who was not able to play in the game.

Mack Ruth, star Bearcat center played nearly the entire game with a broken jaw and a badly cut mouth. He refused to leave the game.

The Bearcat lineup: Hodge, lg; R. Dowell, lt; Sullivan, lg; Ruth, c; W. Dowell, rg; Hodge, lt; Sheldon, q; Milner, qb; Hodgkinson, lb; Phelps, rh; Fischer, fb.

Substitutions: Maryville—Smith for Sullivan, Dunham for W. Dowell, Marr for Sheldon, Egdorf for Hodge, Stalcup for Hodge, Stigall for Milner, Mittel for Stigall, D. Sheetz for Mittel, Milner for D. Sheetz, Sullivan for Smith, Hodge for Stalcup, Sheldon for Marr, Stalcup for Hodge, Furse for Hodgkinson, Moore for Ruth, Parker for Furse.

thanks for the preservation of their lives from the warlike Indians. We have none the less reason to be thankful for the benefits bestowed upon us in 1931. Many of our people, it is true are starving in the midst of plenty, many are without homes or shelter, many are ill and destitute. We should be thankful for opportunities for a higher education, opportunities that our Pilgrim forefathers never enjoyed that perhaps even our immediate relatives never obtained. Spontaneous thankfulness will automatically follow on a realization of the many benefits bestowed upon us. Let us tender those thanks with a cheerful heart and a happy mind.

Question of War Debts Continues to Cause Worry

"Capacity to Pay" Theory Took No Account of Changing Conditions.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington—The long history of the debts reparations problem has been described both as tragic and as comic. The world's greatest statesmen and financiers of the last decade have all had their fingers in it, and now they are going to figure it out all over again.

Once there seemed to be an Allied theory that a hundred billion dollar indemnity might be collected from Germany. But since then a reparations commission, the Dawes plan, the Young plan, the debt funding commissions and the Hoover moratorium have all taken their turns at the huge sums involved in payment of reparations and debts. And now it is a common theory that the whole account will have to be wiped off the slate. If that is true it would appear that so many great statesmen and financiers were never before so unanimously wrong on a single issue.

Several facts which might be classed as absurdities have become increasing by clear since Premier Laval visited President Hoover and the two men worked out some sort of an understanding about a combination debts reparations cut.

Take for example the phrase, "capacity to pay". It has been used in fixing reparations schedules and it was the keynote of our own debt funding negotiations which in effect cancelled 30 percent of the British debt, 60 percent of the French debt and 80 percent of the Italian debt. The theory appeared to be that "capacity to pay" would remain static. Instead, it is estimated that while French "capacity to pay" has greatly increased, Britain's has dropped to the point where, if it was fair to charge 70 per cent of her actual debt then, she could be assessed no more than 25 per cent now. The funniest thought in this connection is the idea that France might be induced to increase debt payments because of her increased "capacity."

A general re-examination of every body's "capacity to pay"—first of Germany's—is understood to be on the program. The initial question will be whether Germany, now cut off from foreign private loans, will have any capacity at all—or enough not to make previous estimates not seem ridiculous by comparison. Germany will never resume reparations payments if she can help it, and France will try at all costs to retain the $100,000,000 a year which represents the difference between present reparations payments to her and the debt payments she makes to England and the United States.

It seems from this side of the ocean, as if at the end of the "Hoover Year" the whole situation would prove to be badly "frozen." And just how the ice on the international pond will ever be broken, is something no frank, intelligent authority here professes to know.

The sour thought which has been slowly sinking in for several years and rapidly sinking in quite recently is that American private loans of between 2 and 3 billion dollars to Germany have financed the German reparations payments which provided the Allies with their debt payments to this government.

The international bankers have been down here arguing with Hoover that it may be possible to save the private loans, but that we can't save our war loans. The prevalent attitude in Congress appears to be that the war debts are a debt to the American people and that the bankers should be told to go chase themselves.

Says Kidnaping of St. Louis Man Has Been All Cleared Up

St. Louis, Nov. 17.—(P)—The kidnaping of Alexander Berg, wealthy fur dealer on November 6, has been completely cleared up by police, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch said today.

This became evident today, the newspaper said, as the police department broadcast notice of $2,000 in rewards for the arrest of Charles Heuer, notorious ex-convict and leader of the abductors, and Edward Barcume, also a former convict and Heuer's first lieutenant. Heuer has served six penitentiary, reformatory and workhouse sentences in the last 18 years, and Barcume has served two prison and workhouse sentences. Both were former clients of Paul A. Richards, criminal lawyer arrested as the agent for the abductors.

Heuer and Barcume are the two, it is understood, who held up Berg and his negro chauffeur on Lindell boulevard the evening the furrier was taken.

The grand jury today began its investigation of the case, and it is understood the state will ascribe parts of the abduction to the prisoners held and fugitives, as follows: Heuer and Barcume, the kidnapers; attorney Richards, the kidnapers' agent; and link with the Berg family in the negotiations for $50,000 ransom, which failed; George Peak, 40-year-old paroled life-term murderer, the "finger man" who pointed out Berg for kidnaping; Curtis Medlock, 22-year-old clerk, the man who rented the flat where Berg was held 102 hours; and Charles Tucker, 30-year-old former juvenile delinquent who has a record of mental subnormality, the guard employed by the kidnapers to help watch Berg. Outside of Heuer and Barcume, all have been arrested. Heuer and Barcume are widely known to police in the middle west and police here expect their arrest.

Kansas Again Shows Champion Carlot of Steers at K. C. Show

Kansas City, Nov. 17.—(P)—Dan Casement, Hereford breeder of Manhattan, Kan., repeated last year's performance by winning the fat carlot grand championship with his exhibit of steers at the American Royal Livestock and Horse Show here today.

Casement won the grand championship at Omaha, Neb., last week and at Louisville, Ky., three weeks ago. Observance of Missouri day brought to the show numerous high school bands among the earliest to arrive being those of Trenton and Chillicothe. Among the notable Missourians present was Arthur J. Hyde, secretary of agriculture.

Other Missouri bands having a part in the program represented Wentworth Military Academy, Park College, Warrensburg, Nevada, Odessa, Oak Grove, Marceline, and Kingston high schools.

Among the awards today: Bull calves, calved between Jan. 1, 1931 and April 30, 1931; first to Badger of St. Albans owned by St. Albans Farm, Pacific, Mo.

Revemere of Wheatland owned by James B. Hollinger of Chapman, Kan., was awarded the junior championship. Duroc Jerseys: Barrows weighing 275 pounds and under 250 pounds, first to Oklahoma A. and M. and second to Frank M. Sibbit, Tindall, Mo.

Miss Darlene Garten has returned from Kansas City where she has been for the past three months.

Bootlegger Is Found Guilty of Murdering Federal Dry Agent

Fort Wayne, Ind., Nov. 17.—(P)—George Adams, 37, Fort Wayne bootlegger, was convicted by an Allen county jury today of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting of John I. Wilson, federal prohibition agent.

Verdict carries a penalty of two to twenty-one years. Judge Clarence R. McNabb deferred sentencing Adams until attorneys for the defense decide whether or not they will file a motion for a new trial.

Wilson whose home was in Indianapolis, and Walter N. Gilbert, of Cincinnati, another prohibition agent, were shot and killed last July 22 in exchange of shots with Adams. The officers were attempting to arrest Adams for an alleged violation of the liquor law. Adams is also under indictment in connection with Gilbert's death. It was testified arrangements had been made with Adams for delivery of a consignment of liquor.

"Earthquake" Was Caused by Nitro-Glycerin Blast

Wichita, Kan., Nov. 17.—(P)—A nitro-glycerine blast in a magazine of the Bond Torpedo company about seven miles north of here today shook towns within a radius of 20 miles.

No extensive damage was done and no one was injured.

The jarring shock rattled windows and caused buildings to vibrate over a wide area, some persons at first believing there had been a light earthquake. A few windows were broken at Newton, Kan., 20 miles north. The force of the blast seemed to be heavier in that direction. A small steel building housing the explosive was wrecked. Company officials estimated the loss at only $300. The cause of the explosion was not known.

Missing Girl Is Found.
Springfield, Mass., Nov. 17.—(P)—Rosemary Pamela Gilding, English girl, missing from the home of Professor Hamilton C. MacDougall in Wellesley, has been located in this city by police women and this afternoon was being detained at police headquarters as a guest to await word from Professor MacDougall.

St. Francis Hospital Notes.
Patients dismissed from the St. Francis Hospital this morning were Arthur Rodke of Bedford, Ia., Roy Watson of Allendale, Mo., Mrs. Pete Myers of Maryville and Mack Ruth of Maryville.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sims were in St. Joseph Sunday and yesterday, when they attended the funeral of Mrs. Cynthia Roselius.

Upset Not Serious If Bowels Get This Help

When you're out-of-sorts, headachy, dizzy, bilious, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy—don't worry. It's probably constipation.

Take a candy Cascaret tonight and see how quickly your trouble clears up. No more headache; no gas on stomach or bowels. Appetite improves; digestion is encouraged. Take another tomorrow night and the next night. Get every bit of the souring waste out of your system. Then see how bowel action is regular and complete.

Cascarets are made from cascara, which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. Ten cents at all drug stores.

Three Are Held as Suspects in Bank Robberies

Trio Arrested in Detroit May Have Held Up Kansas Institution.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 17.—(P)—James S. Hall, his wife Margaret, 21, and Jim McCoy, 33, were under arrest here today as suspects in the $3,400 hold up last Thursday of the State Bank of Parsons, Kas. Virginia Bodds, 22, found in their company was held for investigation.

Arresting officers said the men had about $1,500 in currency, and that two pistols and some ammunition were found at their home.

Joe Flynn, assistant cashier of the Parsons bank, officers here were informed in a telephone conversation with Kansas authorities, has identified Jimmy Overstreet from a photograph as one of the bandits who robbed the bank and kidnapped three employees and a customer. Parsons officers believe Hall is Overstreet, an escaped Oklahoma convict.

Amos McCoy, believed to be a brother of the man held in Detroit, is in jail at Oswego, Kas. Officers quote him as admitting he attempted to aid the robbers when their automobile mired near Quapaw, Okla., where they released their hostages.

The police say Hall has admitted four bank robberies and McCoy two. Hall is said to have admitted robbing the First National Bank, of Mt. Clemens, of $14,000, the Parsons bank, a bank in Oklahoma several years ago in which he got $20,000 and a fourth bank, which he did not name. The police said McCoy admitted the Mt. Clemens and Parsons robberies.

Detective Lieutenant Harry Schow said Hall mistook him for a lawyer and unwittingly confessed his bank robbing activities.

Salesman Escapes Injury in Wreck Near Maryville

Clinging to the steering wheel of his car while it was turning over probably saved R. F. Fowble of Red Oak, Ia., from serious injuries yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Fowble, a salesman for the Ceco Steel and Wire Products company of Omaha, Neb., led the right front wheel of his car get off the pavement just east of the Scudder school, above five miles south of Maryville. The soft dirt alongside the pavement "gragged" the car over, and it turned over three or four times into a cornfield. The car, a Willys Knight sedan, was badly wrecked. Mr. Fowble received a slight cut on his head, probably from a piece of glass out of the windshield.

Variety of Problems Will Be Discussed by Y. M.

The response of educated people to various situations will be discussed in open forum at a meeting of the Student Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night in Room 205 at the College. William Stilwell will be the program leader.

The questions to be discussed and the members suggesting them for discussion follow: "Raiding Shows," Glenn S. Duncan; "Unauthorized Walk-Outs," Norman Clough; "Hitch-hiking," Arlie Smith; "Wasting Time," Floyd Hall; "Dates," Bernard Keefe; "Skipping Classes," Evert Evans.

Merchant Dies in Car Wreck. Ravenna, Neb., Nov. 17.—(P)—John S. Rhein, 55, prominent Alliance, Neb., merchant and former mayor, was killed this morning, when his automobile struck a tree west of here. He was a director of the National Association of Hardware Dealers.

Watchman Is Kidnaped. Wayland, Mo., Nov. 17.—(P)—Pete Egley, night watchman at a filling station here, told authorities today he was kidnaped last night by three men carrying shotguns and a machine gun, driven into the country where the men took from him the key to the filling station, then all returned to the station which the trio robbed. Egley said he was struck over the head when he refused to answer questions. The amount of the loot was undetermined.

Railroad Votes Extra Dividend. Cincinnati, Nov. 17.—(P)—An extra cash dividend of $4 a share to common stockholders and the regular semi-annual dividend of $4 on the same stock was voted today by the board of directors of the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific railroad. Both payments will be made December 26 to stockholders of record December five.

Would Run Buses Through Here. Jefferson City, Nov. 17.—(P)—The Pickwick-Greyhound Bus Company today filed application with the State Public Service Commission for permission to operate as an interstate passenger carrier from Kansas City, Mo., to the Missouri-Iowa state line over highway No. 71.

W. A. Berg and Son Will Exhibit Four Carloads of Steers

Chicago, November 17—Among the Missouri entries for the spectacular carload lot contests of commercial cattle, sheep, and swine, that are being received at the International Live Stock Exposition here, before the closing date for filling them, November 21, are four carloads of Aberdeen-Angus yearling steers from W. A. Berg & Son, Nodaway county.

According to Manager B. H. Heide of the exposition, this well known Missouri livestock feeding firm is giving these prime cattle, their final fitting on their farm near Parnell, before sending them to the International Stock Show, which will be held here at the Chicago Stock Yards November 28 to December 5.

For the purposes of this competition, a carload lot of cattle is defined as consisting of 15 head, says Heide. The awards are made on the relative merit of one group or lot against another. He reports that at last year's International a total of 347 carloads of cattle, sheep, and swine were exhibited—the biggest feature of its kind ever seen at any livestock show in the world.

MRS. I. T. NASH HERE

THE FORUM'S Open Column

Maryville, Mo., Nov. 17, 1931.
Editor, Daily Forum:

Several persons have inquired of me recently who I thought would be the logical candidate for Governor of Missouri. I expect to use all the influence I have to help secure the nomination of Senator Russell L. Dearth of Cape Girardeau. His boyhood days were spent in Holt county. At the last term of the legislature he stood on the floor of the state senate, for fourteen days fighting for an equalization of taxes, and demanding that farming be placed on an equalization with other industries and the farmers and property owners, not to be compelled to bear 90 per cent of the tax burden of the state. He is a young man with his life before him, of delightful personality, high character and unusual ability. In his announcement he says he will stand for the cause of the people against special privileges, support the schools, so that every child in Missouri will have an equal educational opportunity, and is for an equalization of taxes. There is no doubt in the minds of those who have seen him in action in the state senate but he means it. He pledges himself to eliminate waste and purge every department of state of graft. Knowing him as I do, I believe he will do it, and with the help of a majority of the legislature I know he can do it. On that statement alone every farmer in Missouri should vote for Dearth. His work in the senate has been constructive and progressive, a credit to himself and the state. He is a forceful speaker, a born leader and if elected will make Missouri a great governor.

WILLIAM "BILL" JOB.

Prof. J. E. Cameron of the State Normal school, is one of the main speakers at the Andrew county teachers' meeting to be held at Savannah Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

The coal oil stove in Dr. H. L. Stinson's apartment, over the Democrat-Forum office exploded Tuesday morning and set fire to several suits of the doctor's clothing, which were badly damaged.

Forty-two years ago or November 13, 1889, appeared the first issue of the Nodaway Democrat, later merged with the Forum, and now The Democrat-Forum. The paper was started by A. P. Morehouse, who was later lieutenant-governor and also governor of Missouri to fill out the unexpired term of Governor Marmaduke, who died while in office. His partner was A. C. Buell.

At the time the paper was started there was no railroad entering the town. However, a railroad was being built from Kansas City and St. Joseph through Maryville on north, and the railroad was about completed to this city.

The board of public works has received word from the engineers that were hired to take the valuation of the water company's plant that their report is now ready, and will be sent almost any day soon.

The reports of the two engineering firms will be made public. While no one knows the nature of their report, still it will be placed on the city records.

Battle Creek—Roxie, a German shepherd dog, has escaped a death sentence by going into exile. He was under $200 bond pending appeal from a court order for his destruction on a charge of viciousness but the case has been dropped. His owner informed the court that he had sent Roxie to Berne, Ind., to Miss Mildred Heller. "I'm satisfied," said Justice Paul Shafer, "maybe I won't get any more letters calling me names."

Spoofhounds and Benton Play For Conference Title

M. H. S. Team Is in Good Condition For Game at St. Joseph.

For the championship of the Northwest Missouri Big Six High School Athletic Association. That is what the Maryville high school Spoofhounds and the St. Joseph Benton high school Cardinals will be battling for Saturday afternoon at the City Stadium in St. Joseph.

The Maryville team has the more impressive record with four Conference victories and no defeats as compared to two victories and one tie for the St. Joseph team. The Spoofhounds have scored thirty-eight points in Conference competition to none for their opponents. Benton has scored but twelve points to six for their opponents. Maryville won from Trenton 6 to 0, from Lafayette 12 to 0, from Savannah 7 to 0 and from Chillicothe 13 to 0. Benton won from Trenton 6 to 0, and tied Chillicothe 6 to 6 and Savannah 0 to 0, but were given the Savannah game on a forfeit. A tie for the Spoofhounds Saturday would give them a tie for the championship, but morally they would win it for they have the most impressive record.

Coaches Wallace Croy and Bill Smith have been working their charges hard ever since the Chillicothe game a week ago Friday. Last night they had two full teams going through dummy scrimmage, with first one line and then the other working on offense. The Spoofhound coaches emphasized blocking and spiking in their practice last night, declaring that they have only one more game to play and the men who didn't give their best Saturday would come out of the game in short order.

In the first string line Norman Jones worked at center with Allen Short and Dean Miller at guards, Jim Kissinger and Elmer Barrock worked at tackles with Orval Allen and Ray Haselwood at ends. Only one backfield worked on offense and that consisted of Harold Schmidt, Jack Chick, Harold Farrar and Melton. Earl Westing Dickie who worked in the first string backfield, alternating with Melton. These two players were in the backfield in place of George Cockayne, who was not out for practice last night. Following dummy scrimmage the two teams ran signals for about fifteen minutes. In the second string team were Campbell at center, Geist and Belt at guards, Neilson and Wade at tackles, Holt, Soyler and Cummins at ends, and Dickie, Donahue, Carlton and Wiles in the backfield.

All of the Spoofhounds are in good shape for their game Saturday which will begin at 2:30 o'clock, except Dean Miller, playing his last year, who has a slight leg injury. The others are ready to go against the Cardinals.

Legion's Boxing, Wrestling Card Will Be Tonight

Matmen Are in Good Shape For Feature Bout—Dr. Gardner to Referee.

Dr. George S. Gardner has been selected to referee the American Legion boxing and wrestling card at the Booster Club Hall at the corner of 5th and Market streets tonight. Dr. Gardner has had quite a bit of experience as third man in the ring.

"Sailor" Raymond McMaster arrived in Maryville yesterday for his two out of three falls to a finished match with "Tiger" John Smith. He said he was in good condition for the bout, and then left for Guilford, where he formerly lived. A display of awards won by McMaster may be seen at Kuch's Brothers' jewelry store.

"Tiger" Smith says that he keeps himself in pretty good shape all the time, and is in even better now after a week's work at the college. He said that he and McMaster had wrestled 15 minutes at one time to a draw, so the finish match tonight should be a real battle.

"Happy Jack" Spurgeon arrived in Maryville Sunday for his thirty minute time limit one-fall match with Leonard "Pat" Lewis of the State Teachers' College. Spurgeon is a big fellow and wrestled in Maryville during the Fall Festival. Lewis will have a big weight advantage over his opponent, but probably lacks the experience the outsider has.

Joe Corrent, known as "Young Goula," left Maryville yesterday for Kansas City, where he has obtained employment, so will not be able to fight four rounds with Larry "Buster" Hunt. However, the preliminary card of boxing will be put on, perhaps with "Happy Jack" boxing Hunt. Derby Moraynolds, a student at the college, will put on a specialty tap-dance number for the entertainment of the crowd. He may also sing in a quartet, but definite arrangements have not been made for that feature. The card is scheduled to start at 8:15 o'clock.

Play in Big Six Conference Will End This Week

Iowa State Goes Through Long Work Out to Prepare For Title Game.

Kansas City, Nov. 17.—(P)—The Big Six conference winds up its season next Saturday with the title at stake between Nebraska and Iowa State at Lincoln, while Kansas and Missouri meet in their traditional tilt at Lawrence.

With the championship game in mind coaches at Nebraska and Iowa State set out yesterday to perfect their grid machines in an attempt to finish the Big Six schedule undefeated. Thus far both have been victorious in all conference starts. Coach George Veenker who brought the Cyclones out of a losing streak this season, chose to put some polish on his offensive and conducted a long workout despite a drizzling rain.

Coach Dana Bible's regulars, battered and bruised last week-end, rested while the Cyclones' pet plays were outlined to them.

Missouri's gridmen, jubilant in their victory over Oklahoma, returned to work with head coach Gwynn Henry still confined to a hospital. It was believed he would be able to make the trip with the Tigers Saturday. Secret practice sessions will be held throughout the week.

The Kansas Jayhawkers, who have not won a conference game this season, concentrated on offensive tactics. Coach H. W. Hargis said new forward passing combinations would play an important part in preparations for the 40th annual tilt with the Missourians.

Kansas State and Oklahoma completed their conference schedules last week. The Kansas face North Dakota State at Manhattan, while the Oklahomaans will be idle until the Turkey Day tussle with Oklahoma A. and M.

It's Wood Against Booth in Annual Yale-Harvard Tilt

New York, Nov. 17.—(P)—By game time it probably won't be so much a personal duel between Barry Wood and Albie Booth as a tense battle between Harvard and Yale—the 50th in an ancient football rivalry that goes way back to 1875.

Wood and Booth have been so widely publicized that street disputes as to the outcome of Saturday's eastern classic at Cambridge turn on the relative merits of a flashy broken field runner as Albie and an outstanding field general and passer such as Barry. But there will be 20 other players on the field, plus reserves, and out of these may come the hero if hero there must be.

On the records Harvard must be given the favorite's position. The Crimson has plowed through a tough schedule without defeat or tie and has whipped, among others, Army, Dartmouth, Texas and Holy Cross. Wood's judgment in the Dartmouth game was questioned by some critics but the fact remains that he won the game with four minutes to play with a pass to Hageman and then kicked the point that settled the Indians, 7-6. His work against Army was marked by the brainiest sort of work. With Wood to direct the team and toss the passes, three excellent halfbacks in Crickard, Scherchewsky and Mays, a line-cracking fullback in White, and a powerful line, the Crimson seems to pack too much power for Yale.

But past performances invariably are tossed out when Harvard meets Yale and no one can say when Booth will start going places and doing things. Parker, Crowley, the Williamsons, Muhlfeld and others will lend a hand should Booth be too closely watched. This traditional battle far overshadows anything else on the eastern program this week.

Schmeling Arranges An Exhibition Tour of U. S.

New York, Nov. 17.—(P)—Max Schmeling has arranged another exhibition tour of the country to put himself in condition for his expected heavyweight title defense against Mickey Walker in Los Angeles, Feb. 22.

The German slugger will open his tour at Boston Dec. 14 and wind up on Jan. 16 at Oakland, Calif. He will carry two sparring partners with him on the trip and will box two rounds against each man in 23 cities. The Schmeling-Walker bout still is up in the air but Schmeling's manager, Joe Jacobs, already has suggested to William F. Carey of Madison Square Garden, that the Garden join forces with California interests to promote the match.

American Association Head Faces Fight to Keep Job

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(P)—President Thomas J. Hickey of the American Association, today faced what seems to be an annual campaign to unseat him, but apparently with the advantage on his side.

Club owners of the Association, one of the three AA circuits, were in Chicago for the annual meeting, and the big item on the business schedule concerned Hickey's tenure of office. The Hickey forces claimed four votes as certain, which would be sufficient to keep him in the office he has held for 18 years. His principal opposition was expected to come from backers of George Belden, president of the Minneapolis club.

Drake-Grinnell Battle Will Be Valley Feature

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 17.—(P)—The Drake encounter with Grinnell this week draws the spotlight in Missouri Valley Conference competition.

The Bulldogs, who upset Iowa state college Saturday in an inter-conference affair, are in good condition and apparently assured of their fourth valley title.

Western Charity Games Will Not Be Broadcast

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(P)—Football fans planning to sit in a nice warm room to listen to radio accounts of the Western conference charity games November 28, may as well start making other plans. There will be no broadcasts of any of the games.

Conference officials have decided bigger attendances will result if there are no radio accounts.

Bright Colors For Ladies' Shoes Will Be in Vogue

New York, Nov. 17.—(P)—Red heels, blue heels, green and yellow heels on white and black slippers were exhibited at the National seasonal shoe display today.

One white shoe had one quarter of the heel in red with a patriotic touch of blue across the vamp. Another had an orange heel and a touch of orange around the top.

White will be the leading color according to the boot and shoe manufacturers whose fall show is now open. White and tan, and white and black will be popular combinations.

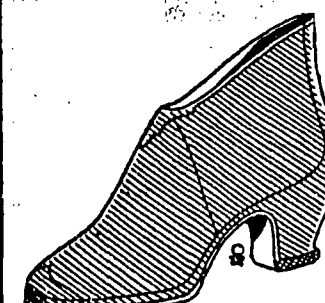

High colors will be good to red will dominate in the sandal types and blue, green, yellow, orange and violet will be fashionable.

New Treatment For Insanity Is Often Effective

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 17.—(P)—The story of a man aroused in four minutes from eight months stupor by a new insanity treatment was told to the National Academy of Sciences at Yale University today.

Another discovery, which opens new possibilities in the causes of peculiar human behavior, shows how nerves sometimes get connected with the brain by the wrong route.

The new insanity treatment is the first practical application of a recent Cornell University discovery that mental trouble is due partly to certain elements of the brain, the colloids, becoming either too watery or too much like over-thick syrup. For the water state sodium amylal is given, and for the coagulation sodium rhodanate.

Warning was given that the new treatment is not a cure-all, although a real addition to previous methods of treating insanity.

Results of this new method upon 46 persons in Willard State (N. Y.) hospital, were reported by H. Beckett Lang, M. D., and John A. Paterson, M. D. They tested the discovery announced last spring by Dr. Wilder D. Bancroft of the Cornell chemistry department, who worked the idea out theoretically with aid of a Heckscher foundation grant.

Lionel Barrymore's Film Performance Is Voted Best of Year

Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 17.—(P)—Lionel Barrymore is the latest of the famous stage family to reach the heights of filmdom, and his arrival has come with an almost unexpected suddenness.

Lionel until recently had been known as a motion picture director. Then the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences announced its award for the best performance by an actor in 1931. It was given to Lionel and in competition with his brother, John Barrymore, who had starred in numerous productions.

The achievement comes at a time when Ethel Barrymore, whose chief work has been on the legitimate stage, is devoting much of her attention to the talents of her children.

The situation was reversed in the early years of their climb to fame. Lionel was playing minor film parts when John was the idol of the stage.

"When 'A Free Soul' was produced Lionel was given the part of a hard drinking lawyer. Comment on his performance was immediately favorable and grew until his work was voted the best of the year. He has laid aside his director's megaphone and will carry on with the Barrymore mantle which

Mules Are Losing Kick Kansas City, Nov. 17.—(P)—Missouri mules of the rising generation have lost their kick says Ed Frazier, Drexel, Mo., breeder. To prove his statement Frazier led out Roxie, a two-year old grand champion of the American Royal livestock and horse show, and slapped the mule quickly on the inside of a rear leg. There was no outburst of flying heels. Roxie only turned his head a bit. "It's all parentage," Frazier said. "That mule is the progeny of a heavy draft mare and a mammoth Jack. Once nervous mares were bred to fiery tempered Spanish Jacks, and vicious mules were produced."

HOOKS AND SLIDES by William Braucher

DID YOU KNOW THAT—A well known New York dental surgeon reveals that athletes in general have decayed teeth. Constant exercising of any kind causes the old chewers to deteriorate, says he. The doctor examined 30 persons engaged in different branches of sports. . . and found all the teeth haywire. . . Especially do baseball players and swimmers have decadent grinders. . . The boxers examined showed the best molars of the lot, but most of these had cavities, too. . . Muscular activity required in sports, says the dentist, takes a certain vital blood supply away from the teeth, bringing on softening. . . At any rate, people whose only form of exercise is "ple-eating contests" ought to have grand grinders.

That Columbia Guy

You may have read that the Columbia University Spectator the other day printed an editorial attacking intercollegiate football as a professional racket. Not more than 375,000 columns of wire news and comment have been printed about it.

And not many more different kinds of opinions have been voiced regarding it.

The article was written by Reed Harris, an undergraduate editorial writer who weighs 215 pounds.

Hello, There, Lou!

Do you suppose that part of the editorial which spoke of the "coaching czars" and "elaborate staffs of experts" who "should be recompensed on a basis comparable to that of other faculty positions" had any indirect reference to Coach Lou Little of Columbia, who happens to be one of the highest paid coaches in America with a reported salary of $18,000 a year? It seemed to me to put Professor Little on the spot. But I would like to know, before passing finally on Harris' harangue, whether or not he had any inspiration from the faculty in writing it. Mr. Harris seems to be a scholarly young man and during the course of his attack upon football conditions, he develops some rhetoric that is very readable. Nicholas Murray Butler himself couldn't have done a great deal better from the pure### ly literary angle.

We Heard It Before

Of course Mr. Harris is right in most of what he says. There are athletic scholarships, there is such a thing as scholastic leniency for football playing blacksmiths, there are coaches who are czars and elaborate staffs of highly paid football experts. We need no editorial in the Columbia Spectator to tell us that.

But I don't think the editorial gave a fair shake to the boys who play football for the sake of the game and the education their football ability helps them to acquire.

Some of the young men at Columbia who play football hold the same view, for I understand several of the varsity players offered to smack Mr. Harris on the back if he didn't quit insulting them.

Players' Angle

Columbia was an unfortunate spot from which to broadcast such an editorial from the angle of the players themselves.

Columbia's scholastic standards happen to be fairly high. And the young men who go out on the football field to die for dear old Columbia aren't very well paid for their efforts. In the first place, in order to get anybody at all to play for Columbia, it is necessary to go through the place with search warrants hunting for willing athletes.

Captain Ralph Hewitt of the football team is in fact so unprofessionalized that he has to juggle trays all winter in the university dining halls. Others who are waiters are Matal, Van Voorhees, Cadogan, Mosser, Hall, Grenda, Wilder, Leadbetter, Montgomery and about a dozen other football players.

Jay Hodupp, another player, is a tutor for young boys. Ed Edling works nights in an office. One of the players even sells tickets at a Times Square burlesque theater in order to maintain himself in the professional racket of intercollegiate football.

The part of the whole story that seems to interest me most and which probably appeals to football players is: Could Columbia have beaten Cornell this year with that 215 pounds of Reed Harris' indignant flesh somewhere in the line?

Daily Bible Thought

SIN ACKNOWLEDGED:—I acknowledge my sin unto thee, and mine iniquity have I not hid: I said, I will confess my transgressions unto the Lord; and thou forgavest the iniquity of my sin.—Psalm 32:5.

Do not be surprised when you see dentists advertising in the daily newspapers and magazines. The dental associations have decided that their ethical policy of non-advertising has become obsolete, and now the dental code permits advertising with restrictions.

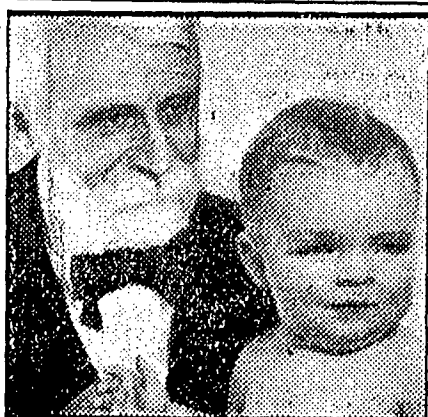

Robert S. Mann, formerly on the staff of the School of Journalism, University of Missouri, who is now a writer for Editor and Publisher, the outstanding trade journal of the newspaper world, is quoted in part as follows:

After years of stiff-backed refusal to have anything to do with advertising, broken in recent months by hesitating attempts to combine ethics with printer's ink in a few localities, the dentists of the nation have cleared the way for an ethical program—paid publicity.

Action at the recent convention of the American Dental Association in Memphis opened the door to use of newspaper space by local dental societies, which have hitherto been restrained by fear of disciplining at the hands of the national association. To prevent abuses of dental ethics in such advertising, it is provided that all copy must be approved by an educational publicity committee set up as part of the Bureau of Public Relations of the American Dental Association. This committee, it is indicated, is not disposed to hamper the advertising efforts of member societies so long as the welfare of the patient is kept foremost and strictly commercial appeals on the part of the dentists are avoided.

Campaigns carried on in local newspapers in recent months by the dentists of scattered cities, particularly Little Rock, Ark., Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Scranton, Pa., have done much to pave the way for the present movement. Inquiries received by the national organization from other local associations have indicated a lively interest in the idea.

Whatever advertising is done will have a large "market" to aim at. It is estimated that anywhere from 35,000,000 to 50,000,000 people in the United

How to train BABY'S BOWELS

Babies, bottle-fed or breast-fed, with any tendency to be constipated, would thrive if they received daily, half a teaspoonful of this old family doctor's prescription for the bowels.

That is one sure way to train tiny bowels to healthy regularity. To avoid the fretfulness, vomiting, crying, failure to gain, and other ills of constipated babies.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is good for any baby. For this, you have the word of a famous doctor. Forty-seven years of practice taught him just what babies need to keep their little bowels active, regular, keep little bodies plump and healthy. For Dr. Caldwell specialized in the treatment of women and little ones. He attended over 3500 births without loss of one mother or baby.

It's pretty hard for us to break into the sport columns so we are letting you know in this way that the Bearcats are limited to eighteen basketball games on their regular schedule. Boy, that's a sigh of relief to the fans as well as the players.

"Muskingum." Nope, this is not an advertisement for a chewing gum but the name of an Ohio school of learning which touts an undefeated football team.

The politicians are buzzing in St. Joseph these days wondering who David Hopkins will recommend to President Hoover for postmaster at St. Joseph. The St. Joseph News-Press, anti-Hopkins, figures that Dave left the city to dodge the inquiries of self-asserting applicants for the job Elliot Marshall has held since 1922, and who would like to have the job for four more years. But now Mr. Hopkins is letting the incumbent down easy, so it seems, by sending a message which gives it as his opinion that the precedent is wise which limits postmasters in larger cities to two terms. In this off political year, the forthcoming termination of Mr. Marshall's tenure has given the newspapers and the political prognosticators something to worry about.

Lupe Valez has just got her second starring role in the movies. That's knocking the public for a Lupe.

Deserts cover only 24 per cent of the earth's surface. But Volstead still has ambitions.

"Bottles" Capone was called the "champagne king." But he sort of bubbled over.

At least nowadays your business man can't be spoofing the missus about working overtime on big orders at the office.

Newspapers the country over say Gloria Swanson may be bigamous. But ten million people will be going to the movies to see for themselves.

States do not bother about brushing their teeth or visiting dentists. Present competitive advertising of dentists, it is believed, results more in a snatching of each other's customers than in creating new users.

Not all the 67,000 dentists in the country are wholeheartedly in favor of the new idea, but it has taken hold in enough places to convince the national leaders that it is better to permit and control dental advertising than to try to prevent it. Without emphasizing the commercial aspect of the movement, it may be pointed out that dentists have not been an exception to the spread of business depression. In some parts of the country loss of patients has forced some dentists to give up practice. Elsewhere there has been a tendency on the part of patients to put off dental work that did not seem urgent. Collections also have suffered.

At the same time the ethical dentists have been forced to see unethical competitors advertising openly for business. In a number of cities newspaper solicitors and other advertising men have been urging dentists to meet the situation, not by individually advertising their own skill or making promises of curing ills, but by co-operatively explaining the preparation and every-day work of the dentist, the mouth conditions that require treatment, and the dentist's relations with his patients.

BARTERING A PUBLIC RIGHT

(The Times, Okmulgee, Okla.)

Word has gone out from Washington that the United States Department of Justice is contemplating a "deal" with the Radio Corporation of America whereby the government suit to cancel the combine's 1408 broadcasting licenses will be dropped in return for the RCA opening its pool of 4000 patients to other radio manufacturers.

No such "deal" should be tolerated by the public. It should never have been contemplated by the government, but since it has been, the public should take a hand in the situation. If there were good grounds for bringing the suit to cancel these licenses, the situation cannot be altered in the slightest

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Rich old MRS. JUPITER is robbed and murdered during the engagement party she gives for her secretary, MARY HARKNESS. Mary's scape-grace brother, EDDIE, is supposed to have been upstairs at the murder hour. Only Mary knows this.

Mary's fiancé, DIRK RUYTHUR, advises her to keep still about having arranged to admit Eddie secretly until he can locate the boy. Mary prevents a maid from telling BOWEN of the Star about the unknown visitor. Dirk telephones that he has had a call from Eddie and will take Mary to see him that afternoon.

Dirk oversteps and Bowen drives Mary to the rendezvous. Eddie is killed by a car as he crosses the street. He mumbles about a fly before he dies. Weeks pass and INSPECTOR KANE drops the case, believing Eddie the murderer. When Mary visits him, he tells her both MR. JUPITER and Dirk believe the same.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 14

"What young man, Spence? What are you talking about?" Mary eyed the old butler, fearful of what he might be about to reveal. He looked so vindictive as he held Eddie's topcoat aloft and glared at it as if he would have liked to shake its owner.

Under the stress of emotion, his usual West End English left him and the Cockney came out.

"He had the face, if you'll believe it, Miss, to call himself a doctor, and try to force his way in. Yes! And when I told him you'd never invited him nor sent for him, that impudent he was he tried to walk past me into the 'ouse! I put my 'and up and I said 'None o' that, sir!' I said—"

"When was this, and who was it, Spence?" Mary demanded, impatiently.

"It was the night of your party, Miss Mary," the butler explained. "Of all them that came and asked to be let in without tickets, he was the freshest. Obviously the man's parting jibe had left an indelible mark on the old servant's sensitive spot—his dignity. 'Why he looked at me as if he'd have liked to do me in, that he did! But I thought as he might be a friend of yours, so I explained about the jewels and the need to keep out thieves. But did he take it like a gentleman would? He laughed, if you'll believe me, and he said 'an old fool,' he did, and said 'Mind you count the spoons!'"

His wrathful mimicry would have been funny if Mary had not been so preoccupied with the identity of that mysterious visitor.

"But who was it, Spence? My brother?"

"Not your brother, Miss," Spence explained testily. "I told you as 'ow 'e was a stranger. 'E had that coat on, as sure as I'm living, with the collar turned up about his ears, like this."

"Are you sure?"

"Sure! When you come in like that, with that coat over you, it brought it back to me as plain as if he was standing there."

"But this is Eddie's coat, my brother," Mary told him excitedly. "Oh, Spence, would you know the man again if you saw him? Oh, do you see what this means?" She seized the surprised old servant by both arms and danced around him. "It means somebody else by the RCA concession to other manufacturers.

The very fact that the government controls the air channels is an assertion of public interest and ownership, and the public should not stand by and see its interest swapped to RCA for benefits competing manufacturers will receive.

Radio broadcasting in the United States has been commercialized to a disgusting extent. This has been done principally by the RCA through its control of broadcasting channels and its 1408 licenses. Even the Fess bill in congress, which would reserve 15 per cent of all broadcasting channels for education, is bitterly opposed by the broadcasting combine of which the RCA is the backbone.

Revocation of the RCA licenses should depend solely upon the merits of the suit that has been brought. Concessions to other manufacturers by opening the patent pool, obviously made in the hope of warding off the heavier blow of cancellation of licenses should not be given any consideration whatever in connection with the pending suit to cancel the RCA licenses.

tried to get in, somebody else did get in, and took the things and did it all, just as I said! Not Eddie! Oh, Spence, you old lamb—why didn't you tell me this before?"

They were still talking it over hours later, Mary and Mr. Jupiter, across the little green baize card-table drawn up before the library fire. Early dusk had fallen because of the rain, and tea things sat disregarded on the table between them.

Spence, rendered completely agog by the possibility that he had brushed horns with a thief and murderer, was in and out on a variety of self-made errands, ears open to hear all that was said. He had guarded the portals better than he knew, and virtue shone as a garland on his grizzled brow. He was convinced already that he had met the brute in single-handed combat, and subdued him by the majesty of his person, alone.

Mr. Jupiter, however, was slower to kindle over the idea.

"You can't be sure it's the same coat," he said. "If the man was a thief, would he try the front door?" He snorted disbeliever.

"It's the same coat," Spence reaffirmed stubbornly. "I've seen thousands of them in London, and not half a dozen in New York, sir. And it's old, sir, an' d'fraid in threads along the edges. Struck me odd at the time, sir, wearing a disgraceful coat like that—begging your pardon, Miss Mary."

"It's old, surely," Mary agreed. "It was Dad's and Eddie came into it when Dad died. It was big for him, but he needed it—times when he hadn't any other."

Mr. Jupiter remained silent. He was unconvinced, but he was thoughtful. Mary continued eagerly. "I shouldn't have thought it the same coat, myself, only that it was that very same night, and his trying so hard to get in, and being so nasty about it. And Eddie's coat was gone, somehow—lost or loaned or something. I'm sure of it. Mr. Bowen the reporter, and I both heard Eddie say plainly when he was lying in the ambulance, 'Make him give me back my coat.' And when Eddie came to meet me that day when—that day," she swallowed hard and went on, "he had no coat on, just his blue suit, all mussed and wrinkled. And it was cold. I remember I wore my fur jacket and nearly froze in that reporter's open car."

"But he didn't get in, you say, Spence," Mr. Jupiter turned to the butler.

"Not by the front door, sir, that's certain," Spence agreed. "But," he added with a side-glance at Mary, "the side door was open."

"And how would he know that?"

"He might just have tried it, sir, and found it open."

"Or mightn't he have heard Eddie telephoning me?" Mary put in. "Eddie knew all sorts of men, gamblers and so on. Mr. Bowen was telling me today there's a race-track gambler they call The Fly, and he thinks Eddie meant him when he was out of his head and mumbled. Only he wasn't out of his head—he knew what he was saying. But he was weak, and we wouldn't pay attention. That's what I believe!"

"Hold on," Mr. Jupiter chided. "You're going pretty fast. You been seeing that reporter lately?"

"Why, yes," Mary was a trifle dashed. "I—I lunched with him today. He's making an investigation on his own, and I've promised to help him."

"It's not his business," Kane's the man! Mr. Jupiter's stick came down with a rap on the velvet carpet.

"But Kane's given up," Mary argued. "He thinks the same as you all do. That Eddie's guilty, or if he isn't, what difference does it make? He's dead. But it makes a good deal of difference to me! And to Eddie, even if he is dead and can't speak for himself. He was a foolish kid, but he wasn't bad—not a murderer! I won't stand by and hear him called one. Haven't I the right to clear his name if I can?"

The old man's eyes flashed.

"The right to lose your young man, too, if you're not careful!"

"Lose Dirk? Why, what's that to do with it?" Mary asked aghast.

Mr. Jupiter merely nodded wisely.

"You'll see," he said. "No, I won't say any more. It's his affair and yours. You might be right, but you can't my brother, I can't take a cent from you. You see that, don't you?"

"Don't be a fool!" the old man burst out. "Nobody blames you. You're not much Harkness, anyway. You're more like your mother. But your brother and his pa were two of a kind—full of wild schemes to get money without working for it. And they both ended up under ground, and no wonder. You can't tell me—"

Mary jumped up, red spots burning in both cheeks.

Before Jupiter could stop her—she was instantly sorry for his outburst—she had rushed from the room.

When Dirk arrived, she had bathed away the traces of tears and except for a new quietness, a new determination, in her manner, Dirk saw nothing amiss.

They drew the shades against the rain, and sat a while before the fire, hand in hand, her head on his shoulder, wordlessly happy. Mary wished that it might always be like this. She dreaded speaking, for sooner or later what lay between them must be discussed. If only she and Dirk could be married right away and go away from long as you think—what you do about everything and everybody for a while!

But in the meantime, what of the man who killed Eddie? At this very minute he was alive somewhere, eating, drinking, laughing, making love—she shuddered involuntarily and Dirk's arm tightened.

"I called you but you weren't in," he said. Loverlike, his tone was faintly accusing. Mary stirred out of his arms. With his words, the whole disturbing day came to life again. Well, better get it over.

"I saw Kane," she said.

"Anything new?" Dirk reached for a cigarette.

"New—for me," Mary said wryly. "He told me the truth, for once." Dirk's look was startled.

"What did he say?"

"Why, just that the investigation is being 'dropped.' Everyone seems to think Eddie is guilty."

"I wouldn't say that 'exactly,'" Dirk said evenly, after a pause.

"Then why?"

The worried look had come into his eyes again. Mary could have taken him into her arms and smoothed it away, but she held herself aloof for his next words.

"Don't you think yourself," he asked, evading her eyes, "that it would be pleasanter to keep your name out of the headlines, just now?"

"It was true then. Was he speaking for his mother, or himself?"

"I'm sorry if it annoys you," she said stiffly.

"Don't be huffy," Dirk pleaded, drawing her back into the circle of his arm again. "You know whatever you do is all right with me, always. But other people have notions. Take mother, now."

"I see," said Mary.

"She's old school, you know, and any unpleasantness reflecting on the family name goes right to her pride. It's all foolishness, of course."

"Then why do you cater to her?"

"Because she's my mother, I guess."

This should have been a clinching argument, Mary realized, but somehow it wasn't.

"I have a duty, too, to the Harkness name, such as it is," Mary reminded him. "I'm afraid I must see it through."

Dirk kissed her fingers tenderly, his lips lingering on her ringed third finger.

"Surely it's not necessary now," he teased, gently. "A month more and you'll be Mrs. Dirk Ruythur. Had you forgotten?"

Mary hadn't. For several moments they were oblivious of everything but that unbelievable fact.

"You're not going to mind, are you, Mr. Bowen and I follow up those clues he has?" Even as she recounted the news of the coat excitedly, she was aware that Dirk's manner had hardened suddenly, that he was definitely

"Don't you know better," he said with measured, reproving accents, "than to talk to newspapermen?"

"But surely," Mary asked, amazed, "Mr. Bowen's harmless! Why, he's done more to clear up the matter than anybody else—the police, or you, or anybody."

"And why has he? For the sake of a story, that's why!"

Stumblingly, Mary tried to defend her own estimate of Bowen. She felt that Dirk was unfair, but she did not know how to refute his charges.

girl!" Dirk went on. "If that isn't a perfect combination for him, I don't know what is! And you let him drag you into it all over again, just when we'd got it stopped!"

"Oh, so you did stop it?"

"I did. And it stays stopped, if I have anything to say about it!"

They faced each other, breathing hard. Mary had not dreamed they could ever quarrel like this.

"It is not over for me. It will never be over, until I've found out what the truth is." Mary was shaking as she issued her ultimatum.

Dirk snapped, "Very well. But don't see this man Bowen again."

"I'll see him as often as it's necessary."

"Then—good night." Dirk turned on his heel and strode angrily to the door. (To Be Continued)

Bright Spots in Business

By the Associated Press
The nation's favorable trade balance in October was twice what it was in September, amounting to $36,000,000. Cotton contributed $15,000,000 to the balance.

Two thousand men went back to jobs in Hudson Motor Company's Detroit plant this week and 7,000 more will return in a fortnight.

For the first time in two years production schedules in several clothing factories in Rochester, N. Y., are speeded up with the prospect of work for 6,000 in next two weeks.

The furniture trade looks for marked improvement in business conditions with opening of winter furniture market in Chicago Jan. 2.

"Business from now on will be up-grade," says Senator Reed Smoot, chairman of the senate finance committee.

Encouraging signs of recovery have heartened the southwest. Heavy rains have renewed winter grazing and assured winter crops; the low price of wheat encourages the profit of poultry, fakers and dairymen. The 1931 wheat crop is 2 1/2 times larger than last year. More men are at work in the Oklahoma oil fields.

Files Suit in Equity
Emily D. Stafford filed a suit in equity in circuit court against J. S. Shinabargar, trustee; J. B. Robinson, administrator of the estate of the late James B. Workman, and Eugene Workman, asking that court to cancel a note and deed of trust on her homestead and quiet title to the real estate.

Stock Market.
New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Stocks closed steady today after an irregular movement throughout a quiet session. Afternoon selling reduced earlier advances of a point or so, but pivotal issues generally moved in a narrow range. Rails recovered foreign declines of 1 to 3 points.

Westinghouse was again heavy, losing about 2. Consolidated Gas, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco, B. R. H. Macy and Bendix were up moderately. U. S. Steel, American Can and General Motors held steady. Transactions approximated 1,600,000 shares.

Corn Is Leader in Grain Price Advance on Board

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Corn acted as drum major of grain price advances today. Heading the procession with a rise of 3 cents a bushel, corn responded to news that farmers throughout wide areas west of the Mississippi were without adequate feed supplies, and that prevailing prices in more fortunate sections were apparently no incentive to induce a larger movement of corn to primary market centers. Corn specialists said the 1931 corn crop was below the average yield and had followed an exceedingly short one last season, and that the market results were taking effect.

Corn closed unsettled 2 1/2c to 2 3/4c higher than yesterday's finish, wheat 1 1/2c to 2 1/4c up, oats 3/4c to 1c advanced, and provisions varying from 5c decline to 7c gain.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Brisk early upturns today in grain prices here accompanied Liverpool wheat quotations higher than expected, together with reports that Russian wheat supplies were declining. It was asserted that since July the Soviet government's grain collections had decreased 62 per cent.

Opening at 3 1/2c to 1 1/2c gain, Chicago wheat futures afterward rose further. Corn started 1/4c to 3/4c up and continued to point upward.

General commission demand for wheat quickly proved more than sufficient to absorb active profit taking which broadened out as the market advanced. Beneficial rains in domestic winter wheat territory southwest were almost ignored. An offset to the improved moisture situation was word from Kansas City that cash buying of wheat was increasing, instead of falling off. Westerners mills were replying anxious buyers, presumably to cover sales already made.

At times, corn displayed greater strength than wheat did. Persistent scantiness of rural shipments of corn was illustrated by arrivals of only 68 cars in Chicago today, compared with 139 a week ago. Primary receipts of corn totaled but 264,000 bushels, against $21,000 on the corresponding day last week and 753,000 at this time last year. In addition to ordinary moves to hold corn in storage on farms, wet weather had a bullish effect. Oats followed corn.

Rainfall Already This Month Sets New High Record

Eight Consecutive Days of Precipitation Bring Total to 3.69 Inches.

Heat Far Above Average

Average Maximum Temperature for First Sixteen Days Has Been 64 Degrees, Mr. Brink's Records Show.

Eight consecutive days of rain have brought the total precipitation this month to 3.69 inches, which is more than the previous record rainfall in any November since 1894 when J. R. Brink started keeping the official weather records here.

The rainfall last night and this morning up until 11:15 o'clock was 1.32 inches, which lacks little of equalling the average rainfall for November, or 1.65 inches, Mr. Brink's records show. His records show that the most rain in any November since 1894 was 2.23 inches in 1902 and the least was a trace in 1904.

No Rain First Nine Days.

There was no measurable precipitation the first nine days of the present month, but since then there has been some moisture each day as follows:

November tenth, .30; eleventh, .62; twelfth, .03; thirteenth, trace; fourteenth, 1.32; fifteenth, .05; sixteenth, .05; seventeenth, 1.32, a total of 3.69 inches.

Not only has the precipitation been over the average but the temperatures the first half of the month have been unusually high. For the first sixteen days of this month the average maximum temperature has been 64 degrees. The average of November is 59 degrees. What the rest of the month holds in store is a matter of conjecture. With the unusually high start, the high average for the month should be well up among the records.

Maximum temperatures recorded for the first sixteen days were 68, 73, 62, 61, 64, 54, 47, 74, 80, 74, 59, 65, 68, 69, 55.

Streams are Rising

With precipitation 2.30 inches above the average in October, the fall rains have soaked the ground to such an extent that much of the rain is now running off in the creeks and rivers. The 102 river was reported high today, augmented by the recent rains. The streams in this county have recuperated from the dry spell during the summer when they were down to nearly nothing and all have carried sizeable amounts of water all during the autumnal season.

The warm weather to date has not been favorable for duck hunting, although there has not been a lack of hunters. The hunters were planning to get out this evening and tomorrow as colder weather is expected on the heels of today's rainfall.

Tickets to Concert by Kryl's Band Distributed

Harry McDaniel and Ralph Yehle drove to Burlington Junction, Tarkio, Rock Port and Mound City today. They left blocks of seats to the Kryl band performances to be given Saturday at the college auditorium. The musical departments of the schools in these towns have expressed a desire to come to Maryville in a body to hear the famous band.

Mrs. T. Medsker and son, Paul of Guilford were in Maryville yesterday.

Streams in County Rise

A rise in rivers and threatened overflow of several small streams and creeks in Nodaway county appears imminent as the slow, continuous showers continue. All sections of the county received more than an inch of rainfall last night and this morning.

The 102 river is reported from Pickering and Arkoe to be bank full. There has been a gradual rise in the Nodaway and Platte rivers.

The Wildcat creek, three miles south of Clyde, is reported out of its banks spreading flood waters over the road and bridge and closing the highway to traffic. It is not the main traveled road however.

The rainfall since last night was one and one-eighth inches at Ravenwood and .80 of an inch at Quitman.

Most of the streams in the vicinity of Graham are running full. Another day of showers, it is said, will put creeks all over the county out of their banks, as practically all of them are half-bank or more full now.

Jumble-Lations

Thursday the 12th proved a more unlucky day for H. Barber, Graham rural mail carrier on route 2, than Friday the 13th. After struggling through the mud all day his car finally emitted a despairing wheeze and stopped four and a half miles south of Graham. Mr. Barber then borrowed a horse to ride into town, thinking that his troubles were practically over. He had ridden the horse about a mile when the animal fell down and died. George Rosenbohm brought the luckless mail carrier into Graham. They arrived at 9 o'clock.

United States Is Taking No Part in League's Efforts

Changed Attitude Toward Sino-Japanese Problem Is Evident.

Paris, Nov. 17.—(P)—Portents of changes in the attitudes of the United States and Russia today threw fresh anxiety over the League of Nations council, which is facing the test of its dozen years' existence in an effort to restore peace in Manchuria.

Reliable indications appeared overnight that the United States was relaxing its firm stand for Japanese evacuation of the disputed area and that Russia is beginning to bestir herself against Japanese military activities close to the Siberian frontier.

Heard of Soviet Protest.

The members of the council, without the Chinese and Japanese representatives, met privately at the Quai d'Orsay shortly before noon. The meetings followed private individual conversations of Ambassador Dawes and Chairman Briand with the Chinese and Japanese spokesmen, Dr. Sze and Ambassador Yoshizawa.

The impression gained ground that Ambassador Charles G. Dawes and the United States government are not inclined to cooperate closely with the League in its efforts to settle the controversy, and a report was received from a high authority that Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs, has filed a protest at Tokyo regarding Japanese army movements in the region of the Chinese Eastern Railway which is in the Russian sphere of influence in Manchuria.

U. S. Stands Back.

This news led to the belief that Russia would not keep her hands off the situation indefinitely if the League and the United States failed to halt the Japanese advance.

General Dawes denied himself to questions but the impression was gained at his headquarters that the United States government now regrets having worked with League leaders so intimately at the last session of the council and believes the more prudent course now is to forget the request to withdraw her troops by a fixed date.

Washington, Nov. 17.—(P)—Ambassador Dawes is staying out of the League of Nations Manchurian sessions at Paris because the United States is not ready to decide how far it will accompany the League along the pathway toward forceful measures against Japan.

North Missouri Farmers Forced to Leave Lowlands

Brookfield, Mo., Nov. 17.—(P)—Numerous farmers in north Missouri were reported leaving their lowland homes today to escape the menace of flood from overflowing streams which have left their banks and inundated thousands of acres.

Grand river between Chillicothe and Utica, Medicine creek west of Wheeling, Parson creek at Meadville and Yellow creek east of Brookfield were reported out of their banks and sweeping over the bottoms.

Many duck hunters were obliged to abandon hastily their lowland blinds and seek safety on higher ground. The rain continued to fall this morning in the affected area.

Two Marriage Licenses

Two marriage licenses were issued yesterday afternoon by Miss Margaret Norton, recorder. One of the couples had their Iowa permit to wed with them, but got their license in Maryville. They had filed application to get married five days ago and could have done so yesterday in Iowa.

The couples who got licenses were Joseph Reha and Darlene Woodzay, both of Orient, Ia., and Baltas Olemtay of Greenfield, Ia., and Jennie Henry of Orient, Ia.

The Weather

Head of Farmers Union Is Opposed to Tax on Sales

Heavier Tax on Big Incomes
Is Suggested at Convention.

Des Moines, Nov. 17.—(P)—H. G. Kennel of Cowles, Neb., vice-president of the Farmers Union, said at the opening session of the national convention today that members had met to consider "the fix we're in and how to get out of it."

Reference to subjects mentioned in prior convention resolutions of the national committee of farm organizations and the corn belt committee such as the agricultural marketing act, changes in tax systems, mortgage rates and the monetary system, was avoided.

Bert Parmenter of Nebraska, reporting for the former committee, said the Farmers Union had 92,990 members in 15 states, and 24 official delegates present.

Some indication of how the convention proposed to meet "present fix" was contained in a platform that President John A. Simpson of Oklahoma City today said, would be presented.

Simpson maintained revision of taxes, by which income taxes in the higher brackets would be increased to meet government expenses, rather than "saddling the masses with a sales tax," would be sought.

HYDE CHEERFUL OVER WHEAT OUTLOOK

Kansas City, Nov. 17.—(P)—Disclaiming any intention of predicting what the wheat market may do, Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture said today the world condition looked good for American wheat at this time.

"I am not in a position to predict what the wheat market will do," the secretary said. "However, in discussing factors which effect the American market, Mr. Hyde mentioned the possibility of short crops both in Russia and Australia."

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(P)—Grain futures were strong today in sympathy with fresh upturns at Liverpool. The entire list on the Chicago board of trade opened higher, continuing the sharp advances made yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Pike Dies After Long Illness

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Pike, mother of Miss Shirley K. Pike, dean of women at the College, died in St. Francis hospital at 6:30 o'clock this morning after a six weeks illness.

Mrs. Pike was born in Maine in 1860 where she spent her early life. After graduation from the Seminary she married Charles A. Pike, a graduate of Bowdoin College, who was principal of the Seminary. They moved to Colorado where Mr. Pike practiced law and was district judge for many years.

Since his death in 1915 Mrs. Pike has made her home with her daughter, the only child. In Maryville, she lived with Dr. and Mrs. Harry G. Dildine. Mrs. Pike was a member of the Congregational church. The arrangements for the funeral will be announced later.

Red Cross Membership Drive Here Brings $456

Memberships taken out in the 1932 Red Cross Roll Call have mounted to $456.53 in Maryville, according to the last check-up today. This is about $200 under a year ago, the records show. No reports have been heard from the rural districts and other towns in the county.

Recent contributions have been $24 from the public school system and $38 from the State Teachers College, the solicitation of which has not been completed.

Mrs. Mayme Dowling and daughters, Marguerite, Mildred and Virginia Rose of Hopkins were shopping in Maryville today.

Disarmament Is Pressing Problem Grandi Declares

Italian Foreign Minister Issues Statement Before Visiting Hoover.

Talks With Sen. Borah

Two Are Agreed That Versailles Treaty
Should Be Revisited—Need of Co-operation Stressed

Washington, Nov. 17.—(P)—Dino Grandi approached his conference with President Hoover this afternoon with a statement that it was "high time" that the world sought a practical solution of the disarmament problem.

In a conference with newspapermen in Secretary Stimson's office a few hours before he was to begin his discussion with the president, the Italian foreign minister called disarmament the most important question "existing in the relations between countries."

Spraks English fluently

"It is high time that everybody seeks a practical result in the disarmament moves," he said.

Responding to a question regarding the possibility of a Franco-Italian naval settlement, the minister expressed his "hope" that such an agreement could be reached.

"Italy feels such an agreement would be good and it would be welcomed by everybody in Italy."

The minister spoke in English, freely and fluently without the assistance of any of the interpreters who stood in the background.

The only question which he did not respond to directly was one as to whether he would specifically discuss with President Hoover and Secretary Stimson Italy's stand for Versailles treaty revision.

Has A Busy Day

"Don't put that difficult question to me," he said smiling.

In answering questions on the disarmament problem he referred to America's ready agreement to the one year's armament holiday which he put forward to Geneva as Italy's representative.

The first full day in Washington for Signor Grandi was crowded with official visits, pilgrimages and receptions. Late in reaching the capital last night, the 36-year-old minister and Signora Grandi were welcomed with the full honors due foreign guests of the nation. A few minutes later they were presented to President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House. Informal greetings were exchanged in English and the couple hurried off to Secretary Stimson's home for dinner and a good night's rest.

Talks With Borah

He talked after dinner with Senator Borah, and unlike Premier Laval of France, his immediate predecessor in that scene, Grandi found himself in fairly close accord with the outspoken chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee. The other guests afforded them 25 minutes of undisturbed conversation. The Versailles treaty gave them common ground, for both want it revised. Said Borah as he left: "I like Grandi very much."

The senator's countenance bore a broad and genuine smile.

Others at the Stimson dinner were old acquaintances of the Italian, Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, and Secretary Adams of the navy met him as delegates at the London Naval Conference.

In his first statement to the press since landing at New York yesterday afternoon, Grandi stressed the necessity for cooperation among all nations.

He described Mr. Hoover's move for an inter-governmental debt moratorium as "timely" and said it marked the beginning of a period of "intensified diplomatic activity" with the heads of all nations talking things over personally "to find the best way out of the difficulties of the moment."

A veteran of the World War, himself, the Italian foreign minister drove through an early morning fog across the Potomac to the hill-top shrine of the American soldier before starting his round of official calls.

Ambassador de Martino of Italy accompanied him. As they entered the gates of Fort Myer the seventeen gun salute for a cabinet officer echoed over the military reservation.

NIKE KOKEN IS OUT.

Notre Dame Backfield Star Has Three Cracked Vertebrae.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 17.—(P)—Coach Heartly "Hunk" Anderson of Notre Dame today said Mike Koken, one of his star reserve backs, would be out of the football wars for the rest of the season because of injuries suffered in the Navy game.

Koken complained of a sore back and x-rays revealed that he was suffering from three cracked vertebrae.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Zimmerman and children were in Kansas City Saturday attending the American Royal show.

Children Assist Needy Charity Matinee Brings in Many Supplies.

The children of Maryville, more than 300 of them, who attended the charity matinee Saturday afternoon at the Missouri Theater contributed a large supply of food and clothing to help care for the needy of this city. The gifts from the boys and girls, which served as their admittance to the picture show were hauled to the City Hall in a truck and are now in the storeroom of the Social Welfare Board to be passed out as the demands for food and clothing grow.

A check-up this afternoon by Mrs. Fern Crull, secretary of the Social Welfare Board, shows the contribution from the boys and girls include four bushels of apples, four bushels of potatoes, nineteen quarts of fruit, eleven cans of vegetables, one-half bushel of carrots, one-half bushel of sweet potatoes, one-half bushel of turnips, one peck of onions, seven jars of jelly, one pound of sugar, and a large packing box full of clothing. Besides there were a few miscellaneous articles of practical use in charity work.

Article Tells of Boy's Effort to Establish Herd

Writer For Star Relates Story of Fay Simmons' 4-H Club Work.

Horatio Alger's heroes on the farm has been displaced by Fay Simmons of Parnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Simmons, according to a writer for the Kansas City Star, who in an article yesterday told of the struggle of this Nodaway county boy to establish a herd of purebred Angus cattle.

Fay had a calf at the American Royal which took first place among the senior calves of the Angus class in the junior division. The history of his 4-H club work, extending back five years, was retold by the Star. How his father had given him a scrub calf to enter in the 4-H club show of this county and from this first winnings Fay has built up a herd from which he shows at the Interstate and American Royal shows.

Wins Trip to Chicago

Fay's 4-H club work has been recognized by the extension department of the state of Missouri. He has been declared the champion Baby Beef club member of the state of Missouri and will receive the award of Swift and company of Chicago, a free trip to the International stock show in Chicago, according to information brought back to Maryville by A. J. Dinsdale, county extension agent.

Fay's 4-H club records are on file in the extension office at the Missouri College of Agriculture at Columbia. From these records and the records of other boys and girls of the state, a committee was selected to decide the champion Baby Beef club member.

Has Another Fine Calf

When the committee got down to three contestants for the prize, the former Nodaway county agent withdrew, saying he had gone far enough. Likewise another member of the committee happened to have a nephew among the entries, so he withdrew. And the extension department took the matter up with the chief of the department to decide the champion club member.

An incident occurred here last September at the Nodaway county fair when the calves of the 4-H club members had been judged. Fay Simmons had a calf that stood at the head of the line. He was mighty proud of his animal, but told a reporter that he had a better calf that he was going to exhibit at the American Royal. He seems to have been right, for the calf that was back home during the county show didn't fail his judgment at the American Royal.

Low Prices For Concert

Kryl's band will play at Marshall on Friday, coming to Maryville Saturday and going from here to Omaha. At Marshall and Omaha the tickets will sell at $1 each. The maximum admission price here is 50 cents, with 35 cents for adults at the matinee.

Miss Opal Looker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Looker of Maryville, will return home Saturday. Miss Looker has spent the past four months visiting her sisters, Mrs. James McMahan, Jr., of Rock Island, Ill., and Mrs. Clifford Dice of Davenport, Ia. She will return by motor with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Dice, who will spend a week here visiting relatives and friends. Mrs. Clifford Dice was formerly Miss Mildred Looker of Maryville.

Tornado Wrecks Barn on Farm 5 Miles From Here

Storms Hit Oklahoma

Downpour of Rain Accompanies High
Winds in Eastern Part of State—
Buildings in Okemah are Wrecked.

A tornado wrecked a barn and a number of other outbuildings on the Henry Heitman farm five miles southeast of here about midnight last night. Shingles were torn off the house, which is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. George Wilmes, and a large bay window was blown out.

The Wilmes family was not awakened by the disturbance. They arose this morning to find the barn completely wrecked, a windmill blown over, a hog shed unroofed, and baled hay which had been in the barn scattered over a wide area. The hogs were unhurt when the shed was unroofed. A cultivator standing near the house was torn up by the force of the tornado.

The buildings on the farm are on a hill, and this is thought to be the reason they were the only structures in the neighborhood affected by the twister.

TORNADOES HIT EASTERN OKLAHOMA

Okemah, Okla., Nov. 17.—(P)—Winds reaching toward proportions struck in eastern Oklahoma early today as an accompaniment of a drought breaking deluge over the state.

At Okemah several downtown buildings were badly damaged and hundreds of window panes broken. A number of residences and other buildings were partly unroofed. Trees and telephone lines fell throughout Okfuskee county but no one was reported injured.

At Lake McAlester, near McAlester, small buildings were razed, trees uprooted in a path a mile long and 500 yards wide.

Water supplies were replenished, winter grains saved and pasture lands drenched with needed water.

At Oklahoma City the rainfall totaled approximately four inches, assuring relief from a threatened water shortage in the city reservoir. Ponca City reported 4.06 inches of rain, the heaviest this year.

Robert Deaton Will Go on Trial December 3

Savannah, Mo., Nov. 17.—(P)—Robert Deaton, 16, charged with first degree murder in the slaying of his foster mother, Mrs. Charles Deaton, will go to trial December 3. The case was set this morning by Judge Guy Park in circuit court.

The boy, held without bond in Andrew county jail, is accused of luring his foster mother into the basement of their country home to beat her to death with a piece of iron pipe.

Mrs. George W. Myers came from Bethany yesterday to be with her daughter, Mrs. H. B. Cushman, who is quite ill. She was accompanied by her nephew, Cloyd Nickerson, who returned to Bethany this morning.

Missing Group Is Safe

Cape May, N. J., Nov. 17.—(P)—The three high school teachers and five young men missing since Sunday in a motor launch have been found safe in a lighthouse in Delaware Bay.

The Coast Guard Patrol Boat No. 107 radioed the information to Coast Guard Base No. 9 here. The lighthouse is known as Fourteen Foot Bank light. It is in the middle of Delaware Bay which is twenty miles wide and about 17 miles from the Delaware capes.

A boat was sent from Cape May to the lighthouse to tow the launch either to Cape May or to Bivalve from which place the party of eight left Sunday afternoon for a short cruise in Delaware Bay.

The light house is twelve miles from the New Jersey shore and on the edge of the main ship channel to the sea. James Shockey, the keeper, and Greensbury Dennis, an assistant, were on duty when the party of eight arrived at the light.

Later details said the party were proceeding slowly through the dense fog almost out of gasoline when Shockey heard their cries for assistance. The keeper shouted for them to tie up at the lighthouse, continuing his shouts until they were sighted. The fog was so thick that vision was possible only ten feet ahead.
